

Urgent appeal / Call of action

Immediate aid to protect minorities from Aleppo!

In the predominantly Kurdish districts of Sheikh Maqsoud and Ashrefiye, around 150,000 civilians, including many minorities such as Yazidis, Druze, Christians, and Kurds, are fleeing from Aleppo to Rojava east of the Euphrates as a result of attacks by the Syrian army and Islamist groups. They lack medical care, food, water, winter shelters, heating, and electricity. The situation is extremely precarious.

The protection of minorities is of the highest priority in order to prevent further displacement and alleviate suffering. Through coordination with recognized local aid organizations, the Yazidi Relief Organization is preparing emergency aid to provide for these minorities.

Help now, before it's too late.

A donation of just €30 can provide 15 people with food for a day. On our website, we provide information about the urgent need for essential medical supplies, among other things. NGOs and other aid organizations are encouraged to support this effort.
